IWMC 2022: The Call for Papers has been released

Hamburg, 13th January 2022. The 21st International Water Mist Conference will – for the second time – take place in Madrid, Spain, on 9th and 10th November 2022. Organizer is – as always – the International Water Mist Association (IWMA). The conference venue is the Elba Madrid Alcalá Hotel.

The call for papers is now published and will run until 16th May which is also the day on which the conference webpage will go live.

An exhibition will run alongside the conference providing the sponsors with the opportunity to network with the delegates, showcase their products and generate new sales leads. The booking forms are available on the IWMA webpage www.iwma.net as is the call for papers.

“Day one of the event will mainly focus on applications, whereas day two will take a more scientific approach to the water mist technology”, says IWMA general manager Bettina McDowell.

The conference programme will be published on 1st July. The early bird period will end on 15th August.
